上海爱尔眼科医院
SHANGHAI AIER EYE HOSPITAL

Dr. Liu Huiying, Ophthalmologist, National Academy of Ophthalmology, answers your questions on lasik surgery

Should I have laser surgery?
More and more people are enjoying perfect eyesight thanks to laser surgery in recent years. However, many people are still unfamiliar with this kind of operation. Here, Dr. Liu Hui Yin from optometry clinic EYE answers some commonly asked questions about laser surgery.

Is laser surgery safe or not?
Yes, it is. Excimer laser surgery is an extremely precise surgical operation with a history of more than 20 years. Tens of millions of people undergo this simple operation every year. The laser surgery provides you with a pair of 'customized lenses' bringing convenience and ease back to your life.

Do I qualify for laser surgery?
Our clinic offers comprehensive ophthalmic testing including vision tests, intraocular pressure measurements, pachymetry, measurement of the curvature of the cornea etc., so as to make a precise assessment about whether a patient is suitable for laser surgery.

Finally, what does it cost?
The expense of a traditional laser operation is relatively low, averaging RMB 9000 for both eyes. Femtosecond laser surgery, mentioned above, costs around RMB 16,000 for both eyes. The good news is that during the "Grateful to China, Grateful to Shanghai" promotion of EYE, we will offer a 30 percent discount on Femtosecond laser surgery - the lowest in China.
