Shanghai Community International School Pudong celebrated the annual United Nations International Day of Peace on September 27. The day opened with a beautiful presentation of flags representing the lower school's diverse population from around the world. The assembly culminated with a colorful display of the things that unite us and also the things that make us unique. During the school's assembly, teachers and students highlighted how they have been engaging with the concept of peace. Students made "peace" rocks, expressed "peace" in vari-
