

Daniel Jubert

Head of School, SCIS-Pudong

Birthdate: October 10th, 1980

How do you fit the Monkey profile?

How are you different from the traditional Monkey? "Curious, playful and energetic would all be traits that I feel describe me. You won't find me being mischievous, though - at least not at work!"

How do these characteristics manifest themselves in your work life or career?

"I think it is important to maintain a balance at school so children have plenty of time to be curious, clever, playful and - once in a while - even mischievous. I'd say I often replenish my own energy from being around our youngest learners."

How about in your family life? "My daughter was born two years ago in the Year of the Snake. My Chinese coworkers told me that Monkeys and Snakes are playful with each other, and I'd say my relationship with my daughter is very much like that. My wife calls me "the fun one." She, on the other hand, was born in the Year of the Rat. I am told by my coworkers that Snakes eat Rats... my wife better watch out for adolescence!" SF
